

Rooted in "Tikun Olam"- the Jewish concept for repairing the world - Kibbutz Lotan's Eco-Projects started as a dream and a vision. It began as a small organic vegetable garden and has since expanded into the Center for Creative Ecology - a focal point of community ecological action and educational center for visitors from Israel and the world.

Your donation to the Greening of Lotan supports the continuing development of:

The hands-on Environmental Education Experience, where recycling, organic gardening, environmental awareness and Jewish sources are incorporated into individual and community action,

The Lotan Bird Reserve, Birdwatching Research and Visitors Center a safe haven for the millions of migrating birds traveling between Africa and Europe

Eco-Construction Projects recycling tires, cans, bottles paper, plastics, straw-bales and mud into beautiful community built structures: houses, education facilities and our future synagogue.

The Greening of Kibbutz Lotan

Kibbutz Lotan is a young community, founded in 1983 in Southern Israel's Arava Desert. We came together to create a community based on a modern liberal approach to Judaism that strives to fulfill values of equality between the sexes, equality in work, and genuine communication between people. Lotan's population is 150 from Israel and eleven other countries including many NFTY and NETZER graduates. With 50 kibbutz-born children, Lotan has grown-up from the days of its original 30 pioneers.

The determination and will of individuals in a collective have a way of bringing change. Lotan is involved in reaching out and educating Israelis and visitors from around the world in this quiet, step-by-step revolution. We hope to mobilize you to join the cause.
